

A close-up photograph of various musical instruments resting on a dark, polished wooden surface. In the foreground, a silver flute is partially visible on the left. A red mallet with a wooden handle and a red felt tip lies diagonally across the center. To the right, a brass instrument, possibly a mellophone or euphonium, is partially visible. The background shows more of the wooden surface and other instruments, including another brass instrument. A large, semi-transparent red triangle is overlaid on the bottom right portion of the image, containing white text.
